Political Reminiscences of Some of New York's Well-Known Men.

Ex-Tombs Warden Walsh Describes the Reforming of Tammany.

The Outing of "Jim" Irving's Clan from the General Committee.

Faction Fight with Pistols on the Steps of Tammany Hall.

Thomas P. Walsh, whilom warden of the Tombs Prison, who is vouchered for by Reformer William M. Irvine, thrust his hands deeper into the ear-pockets of his broadcloth trousers as he sunned himself in front of his Centre street saloon, and, pointing a Reina Victoria in his mouth so that he could feel the fire in his eye, replied to the Evangelist World inquiry like this:

WALSH THREW HIS HANDS INTO HIS POCKETS.
"I have been forty years in New York politics, and the most interesting, if not the most exciting, episodes in my political remembrance were those of the reorganization of Tammany Hall and the overthrow of Bill Tweed and his gang."

Mr. Walsh awayed from his heels to the tomb, and his eyes looked through the cloud of tobacco smoke back through a vista of nearly twenty years.

"I was with Sam Tilden and Edward Cooper in the work of reforming and reorganizing Tammany Hall, and they were most exciting times."

"The funniest thing was the contest in the sixteenth Assembly District. When we got into our meeting we found that the sixteenth District Committee was just equally divided."

"Sam Tilden and Jim Irving had just equal interests. Jim held half of the Committee and Sam Tilden the other half!"

"Sam Tilden was elected Governor, then President. Jim Irving kept a saloon in Thirtieth Avenue."

"Well, we had to fix that. Me and my brother Billy, who was afterwards County Clerk, stood by Tilden. We got a committee appointed to inquire into things, and the committee reported, recommending that two Irving men be unseated and two Tilden men be given their seats."

"The report was before the meeting of the big committee. The members of the Tammany Society got up. Jim Kelly's police to protect the Hall from Tweed for trouble was expected. The police were supposed to be non-partisan in fact, they were Republican."

"Pat McMullen was one of the unseated members. The question was on the adoption of the report, and McMullen he stood up and he says, says he:

"I have always stood by Tammany Hall. I'm an organization man way through. I have fought her battles through thick and thin. If that is a crime, I am guilty and you may put me out."

Mr. Walsh rolled his eyes and pursed his lips, just as the after-dinner speaker does when he has made a hit and awaits the substance of the applause.

"Then Billy Kelly--you know ex-Civil Justice Billy Kelly--he arose, and he says-- Billy was speaking for Jim Irving and Peter Woods, a Third Avenue cabinet-maker."

Mr. Walsh's dulcet notes changed to a nasal falsetto.

"Kelly says, says he:
"We don't go to Union Square; we don't go to Madison Square; we don't go to no square for our votes. The place where the big Democratic majorities are rolled up is in the big fire-stroke tenement houses along east of Third Avenue!"

"With that I came onto my brother Billy and I says 'Billy, have I got to vote against that fellow?'"

"That's what you're got to do," says Billy.

"Well then I won't, that's all. I like the way he talks 'cause that's the way I feel."

voice, and, after drawing a long breath, went on:

"My brother Billy he stood up and he says: 'Gentlemen, I have worked early and late for the purification of Tammany Hall. I have fought the organization when it was corrupt and stunk in the nostrils of honest people. I am proud of fighting it. Now I have signed this report and I hope it will be adopted.'

"Then Billy turned and pointed his finger at Prince Harry Genet and he says, says he:

"Harry Genet, you signed that report, and now I dare you to vote against it."

"That settled it. They unseated Jim Irving and seated Sam Tilden. But there was an awful row, you can bet. Jim Irving

"THEY GOT TO SHOOTING AND HALF A DOZEN MEN WERE KILLED."

had O'waye George, Clipper Hennessy, and McMillen and Woods and a gang on his side, and big Jack Dolan and Mike Dolan, his brother, and some good men were on Sam Tilden's side.

"There was a wrangle all the way through after this. You know we held a lot of meetings for the reorganization, and there were some pretty stiff fights."

"It was one afternoon late in the Fall, when we were inside and some of the boys had a little dispute out on the sidewalk."

"They got to shooting, and half a dozen men were hurt. We could hear the pope tossing, but nobody seemed to care about going out to see what was going on."

"Some twenty shots were fired and a number of arrests were made, but nobody was killed, and it finally blew over."

"Those were exciting times, but I was never much on excitement myself and I kept out of it pretty well. Some of the boys could tell you some pretty exciting stories."

BARRED BY THE UNION CLUB.

Why Was Vanderbilt's Son-in-Law, Dr.
Howard Webb, Blackballed?

A weekly paper published to-day says Dr. W.
Vanderbilt, President of the Wagner Palace Car Company, has been black-balled by the Union Club, to which he had applied for membership.

Dr. Webb is thus placed, by the action of the members of the Union Club, in the same category as President John King, of the Erie Railroad, whose application for membership was refused by this Club a year or so ago.

Both are millionaires, and are denied access to the society of certain other millionaires, who are "in the swim."

The reason alleged for the rejection of Dr.
Webb is that since his acquisition by marriage of a portion of the Vanderbilt estate he has ignored friends who he knew and cherished in the days of his modest and unglorified torporous.

An Evening World reporter called at Dr.
Webb's office in the Grand Central Depot last afternoon, and found that gentleman presiding, in his accustomed manner, over the des-tines of the Wagner Palace Car Company.

The reporter was denied the privilege of personally interrogating the doctor, but sent in written queries as to the truth of the published statement.

Dr. Webb was very busy and the reply brought back by his footman. He really was too busy to discuss the matter at all. His time was too much occupied to permit of his making any statement whatever of any kind regarding the matter.

It will be noted that Dr. Webb took no pains to deny that he had applied for membership in the Union Club and that he had been refused.

Mr. Henry W. T. Mall, who is one of the Board of Directors of the Union Club, was seen by an Evening World reporter at his office, 220 Broadway.

The reporter questioned Mr. Mall as to the truth of the statement that Dr. Howard Webb had been blackballed.

"Mr. Webb had been blackballed," said Mr. Mall. "I could not give any information about it. It would be a violation of one of the strictest rules of the Union Club."

"I will say, however, that I have attended nearly every meeting of the Board of Directors, and I do not remember such a vote being cast by my presence."

BUILD A NEW CROTON DAM.
It Is Decided Upon by the Aqueduct Commissioners.

The Board of Aqueduct Commissioners held a special meeting to-day for the purpose of introducing a resolution as might be submitted with reference to Engineer Foley's recommendation that a new Croton dam should be erected near the site of the present old Croton dam. Mayor Grant presided.

Commissioner Cannon opened the discussion by introducing a resolution to the effect that a new dam should be built.
Commissioner Foley objected strongly to the building of the dam.

Commissioner Cannon spoke in favor of it.
Commissioner Foley spoke in favor of it.
Commissioner Foley spoke in favor of it.
Commissioner Foley spoke in favor of it.

EVA'S CASE LOST. WALL ST.

Surrogate Ransom Decides that She Is Not Hamilton's Widow.

She Has No Claim to Any Portion of His Estate.

Counsel Sum Up the Evidence and the Decision Is Made at Once.

Surrogate Ransom to-day put a prompt question to the claim of Eva Hamilton, the widow of Robert R. Hamilton, to any share in the division of his estate.

He listened to sixty-minute speeches from Eliza Root and Col. Fuller, and then, in departure from long custom, decided the case on the spot.

He reviewed the case from beginning to end, and declared that the evidence showed that Eva and John Mann were, or intended to be, considered man and wife when, Jan. 7, 1889, Eva went through a marriage ceremony with Robert R. Hamilton at Paterson, N. J., and that, therefore, she is not the widow of Robert R. Hamilton and has no share in the estate of a claimant of a dower right in Mr.
Hamilton's property.

The last scenes in the trial of the suit of Evangelina L. Steele, the Surrogate's Court to set aside the will of Robert R. Hamilton were resumed to-day before Surrogate Ransom and an audience that filled the chamber.

The evidence was all on both sides and all that remained was for the lawyers to present their arguments as to the effects of the evidence.

L. J. Morrison, of Evangelina's counsel, asked for an extension of the case, to give Col. Fuller time to prepare an argument and a brief.

The Surrogate denied the application, saying:

"This Court is like a jury. It is here, ready to go on at a moment's notice, and the law must not be waited for the convenience of counsel."

Evangelina was not in court. She was in Kunkle, a little village in Northern Pennsylvania, attending the funeral of her mother, Mrs. William Steele.

Gen. Seyler Hamilton, father of Robert R. Hamilton, was the only party in interest present when Eliza Root began his address to the Court.

Lower Root reviewed the evidence in a purely matter of fact style, making no attempt to excite, but called attention to the fact that the marriage ceremony performed by Dr.
Harr, of Paterson, Jan. 7, 1889, and which was supposed to make Eva the wife of Hamilton, was between Eva and the birth of Eva's child in Pennsylvania, an event of which Hamilton was never aware.

Mr. Root called attention to John Mann's testimony on the trial of Eva's brother Joseph, in Pennsylvania, in 1889, that he had married Eva seven years prior to that trial.

To the testimony of the officials of the Dime Savings Institution and the Recorder Street Bank in the city, that in 1889 and 1890, when Evangelina opened accounts at these banks, she informed them that she was Mrs. Joshua Mann.

Then he deduced the inference from these points that Eva was the wife of Mann.

"I want you to believe that John and Eva were husband and wife," said the pleader, earnestly.

"This woman, who watched over him and cared for him when he was ill, nursed him when he was drunk, and tied herself to him-- it is impossible that she could have been for many generations and for thirty years, as she has been told by him to be once run away, and that she sought him, sent messengers after him and finally found him and brought him back again. Would she have done that had he not been her wife?"

His argument was very good. He argued in an earnest way, but not with the force of eloquence or the logic of the orator.
Between divisions of his argument, and while thinking of the succeeding clause, he drums nervously on the table before him, using all four fingers of each hand.

The letter in the case were referred to by Mr. Root. Kate Collins, the sister of John Mann, writing to Evangelina in September, 1889, four months prior to the Paterson ceremony, addressed her as "Dear sister."

"That letter exposes the most tender and delicate affairs of life to Evangelina. It is signed 'Your loving sister, Kate.' Women do not apply that term 'sister' indiscriminately." John Mann's sister believed that Eva was her sister by marriage to Mann.

"An illicit intercourse could never bring about these close and friendly relations. With a sister tongue than any prostitution or any other base relation, and for thirty years, as she has been told by him to be once run away,
and that she sought him, sent messengers
after him and finally found him and brought
had he not been her wife?"

Mr. Root reverted to the Liverpool letter from Eva to Mrs. Devotion as one that could come to any woman only from the wife of her son.

"This evidence amounts to a proof in three ways," said the lawyer. "It constitutes that repute which implies a common law marriage.
It is the presumption of morality as against immorality."

"The Court of Appeals has over and over again held it to be the policy of the law to presume legitimacy or as against illegitimacy of children, and that is the presumption here in the case of her child."

"The testimony of Evangelina is certainly the most astounding theme and fabric of falsehood I ever listened to. She over and over again admitted that she had never been John Mann's mistress; that she had never occupied the same room with him at father's, her brother's, or any other place, and she asserted that she had occupied the same room with him at the Lafayette Hotel, voluntarily, saying that it was so that she might take care of him because he was an absolute imbecile."

"She denied over and over again that she had ever introduced him to any one as her husband."

"At this time she did not know that other hotel registers were in our possession; that we had all these letters; that we knew of this trip to Europe, that letter written by his bedside at 5 o'clock in the morning in Liverpool, and those letters written by him, showing him to be a drunkard."

WALL ST. FENELON

Stock Reports.

Bears Jump on Chicago Gas and Knock Off 4 Per Cent.

Speculation Dull and Money Almost Unobtainable.

Less Than a Million and a Half of Clearing House Certificates Out.

Chicago Gas furnished the only sensation there was in the stock market to-day.
Speculation was in a heartily dull rut, and the bears thought it a good chance to make a "turn." Hence they went for Chicago gas without gloves, and being successful in a ticking "stop" order, they knocked 4 per cent. off the price. Sales were made as low as 45.

The general list was affected but all billy-day K & K per cent.--and when the bears got through with gas business was as dull as before. After midday there was a slight rally.

Money is evidently going begging in London.
To-day the Governor of the Bank of England reduced the rate of discount from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent. In the open market call loans were done at 1/2 of 1 per cent., the lowest point in months.
Discounts are quoted at 1 1/2 a 1 3/4 per cent.
Even at these rates outside of the B. N. K. money is almost unobtainable.

Sales were generally better in the afternoon trading, but the improvement was merely fractional. Trading was on a decidedly limited scale, and operations were profoundly damped with the condition of the market.

Sterling exchange was dull. Quotations for actual business remain the same as yesterday.

At the clearing, however, it is stated that certificates outstanding have been reduced to $1,000,000 through the retirement of $600,000 to-day.

The sales at the New York Stock Exchange were 118,000 shares of listed stocks and $25,000 cents of shares.

MORTON RULES FOR CLOSURE

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the Senate this morning, after the reading of the Journal, Mr. Aldrich, author of the closure rule, got the floor to introduce a trade against the Thom-

He said they had thrown off all disguise and had bet ayed a determined policy to prevent any legislation, or any action, unless they wished as to certain measures should receive consideration and be acceded to.

Mr. Aldrich moved to take up the cloture resolution, in spite of the fact that yesterday's journal of the Senate still stands objected and unapproved.

The Democrats contested the point, Mr. Callahan speaking earnestly.

Vice-President Morton is in the chair.

Vice-President Morton finally ruled that the majority had the right of way, and the Senate, by a vote of 25 to 20, sustained him.

The Senate voted, by 25 to 20, to take up the cloture resolution, leaving the Journal still unapproved.

—Ambassadors, Teller, Stewart, Wilson

Four negroes, including, it is said, a woman, were arrested. Jones (Nev.) voted with the Democrats against taking up the cloture rule.
